Cell Phones in the Classroom Pros and Cons

Mar 9, 2014

Cell phones have been crucial part of modern life and these have also been useful gadgets for students. However, cell phones in the classroom pros and cons have been subjects of debate among parents, teachers and students. Some claims that cell phones play essential role in boosting learning but there are those who attest that cell phones in classroom are linked with unpleasant issues. Individuals got different viewpoints regarding these matters. If you aspire to make your own justifications, you got to be aware of the pros and cons of cell phones in the classroom.

Cell Phones in the Classroom Pros

Recent studies show that high percentages of students are bringing their cell phones in school. This scenario indicates that cell phones really do perform beneficial functions. The primary advantages of mobile phones in the classroom are given below:

1. Academic Help - The most significant advantage of having cell phones in the classroom is being effective and reliable academic tool. Cell phones have several features like cameras, calculators and internet connection that can certainly help students when doing research and home works. Students can also use several applications beneficial to learning.

2. Emergency Contact - Cell phones are undeniably useful in terms of contacting individuals instantly especially during emergency situations. Knowing that students have their own mobile phones make parents feel relieved and at ease because they can easily contact their children in events like change of schedule and plans, urgent messages and instructions and more. Cell phones also make it possible for parents and students to keep in touch with each other.

3. Security - Not only can students keep in touch with their parents but they can also contact emergency numbers, friends and relatives during urgent and complicated situations. This provides security to students and parents at the same time.
4. Versatility - Aside from school premises, cell phones can be functional in other places. Students can use their phones for all-around purposes such as communicating, researching, making connections and many more.

Cell Phones in the Classroom Cons

There have been recorded advantages of cell phones in the classroom and for this reason, some parents and teachers believed that these gadgets should be banned at school. Some of the cell phones in the classroom pros are outlined below:

1. Distraction - Texting and making calls during class hours can definitely be major distractions for students and this is one of the common disadvantages of having cell phones in the classroom. Distraction also interferes with the concentration of students and if these scenarios happen frequently, their academic performance might as well be affected.

2. Wrong or Illegal Usage - There are instances that students use cell phones for wrong or illegal activities and purposes like thefts, drug deals and the like. Instead of using these phones for academic purposes, students use these gadgets for taking pictures and uploading videos the wrong way. Cell phones are also being used for cheating.

3. Hostility - Only those students who can afford to have cell phones and this scenario creates social problems such as hierarchy jealously, ragging and thefts.

Modified (4/20/15) http://healthresearchfunding.org/